DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 20 – 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 20 recites the limitation "the patient" in line 9. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. See MPEP § 2173.05(c). Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claim 21 recites the broad recitation 10 – 50 cm, and the claim also recites 10 – 40 cm which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. See MPEP § 2173.05(c). Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claim 22 recites the broad recitation 0.5 – 8cm, and the claim also recites 0.5 – 6 cm which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 20, 24, 27 – 29 and 35 – 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Karlsson (WO 02/22063).

With reference to claims 20, 24, 27 – 29 and 35 – 38, Karlsson discloses a disposal diaper for user incontinent care, the diaper comprising: a hip belt forming a peripherally closed hip opening of the diaper with means for opening and closing the hip belt at a least one location; a main diaper portion having a front region, a rear region, an intermediate crotch region, a back sheet layer facing away from the patient which is impermeable to liquids, a top sheet layer facing the user which is permeable to liquids, and an absorptive body for body fluids, wherein said main diaper portion also has means for attachment to said hip belt in a detachable fashion at a longitudinal end of said front region or of said rear region via first closing means in such a fashion that the user, with said hip belt applied, raises said main diaper portion between the legs and attaches a free longitudinal end of said main diaper portion to said hip belt in a detachable fashion, wherein said first closing means are disposed between said hip belt and said longitudinal end of said main diaper portion; and longitudinally extended second closing means for effecting a holding connection between said hip belt and said front region or said crotch region of said main diaper portion, said second holding means being structured, dimensioned and disposed such that the user, after loosening said first closing means, folds or opens said front region of the said main diaper portion away from said hip belt as set forth on page 4, line 1 to page 5, line 31 and in the figures.

The examiner contends that the limitations regarding the way the diaper folds or opens after loosening a first closing means is considered a functional limitation in which the article of Karlsson is fully capable of performing. Likewise, the limitation reciting raising the main diaper portion is a recitation of intended use which does not provide a patentable structural distinction from the invention of Karlsson.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 21 – 23, 25 – 26 and 30 – 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Karlsson (WO 02/22063).

Despite the indefiniteness of claim 21 – 22, the examiner contends that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the second closing means in order to determine the most effective product since the general conditions of the claim have been disclosed in the prior art and discovering the optimum or workable range involves only a level of ordinary skill in the art.

With respect to claims 23 and 25 – 26, 30 – 34 the examiner notes that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.
